

UPHAM GOT HALF
OF ALL THE VOTESRECEIVED MORE THAN OTHER
CANDIDATES COMBINED

Governor Peck Only Got Thirty Nine Per Cent of All the Ballots Marked and Fell Nearly Thirty Thousand Below the Vote of Two Years Ago.

MADISON, Nov. 22.—The result of the recent election as indicated by the official figures that are being filed with the secretary of state, was that Governor Upham received more than one-half of the total vote cast in the whole state for governor. More than the combined vote of the other three parties. A careful estimate based upon the returns that have been received from fifty-four of the counties shows that Upham's total vote will not fall far short of two hundred thousand. This is a gain of about thirty thousand over the vote of 1892.

Governor Peck received a little less than thirty-nine per cent. of the total vote cast, and fell nearly thirty thousand below his own vote of two years before. The populists had nearly three times as many votes this fall as two years ago. The estimate places their vote this fall at 27,141, or over seven per cent. of the total vote. The prohibitionists have lost nearly two thousand of their thirteen thousand votes of two years ago. Their vote this year is less than three per cent. of the total vote for governor. Of the fifty-four counties that have made returns but eleven gave majorities for Peck this fall.

A FARMER BUNCOED FOR $4000
Louis Glyre of St. Jacob's Ill. Swindled at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—Louis Glyre of St. Jacob, Ill., called at the four courts yesterday and told Chief of Detectives Desmond a story of how he had been swindled out of $4,000 by a trio of three card monte men.

Until two weeks ago Glyre owned a large farm three miles from St. Jacob, when he sold out for $4,000 and placed the amount in the bank at Highland, Ill. About two days ago he learned that he could purchase a farm in Ohio at a low figure. It was just the kind of an investment that he was looking for, and he at once went to the place. Last Wednesday, while on a west bound Ohio & Mississippi train just outside of Cincinnati, after having completed all arrangements to purchase the farm, save paying for it, he formed the acquaintance of three well dressed men, one introducing himself as J. E. McDonald and his friend, Robert Sumner, both traveling salesmen. The other said he was John Wilson, an actor, bound for Chicago. In the conversation which followed the men learned from Glyre all about his affairs, including the fact that he had $4,000 in the bank at Highland, Ill., which he was willing to invest. Wilson at once proceeded to work to gain possession of the $4,000. He drew four cards from his pocket and said he had just lost $300 in learning a new game and proceeded to show how it worked. An exhibition of the three-card monte game followed in which Glyre was allowed to win $4,000. Wilson took a roll of bills from his pocket as if to pay, and while counting out $4,000, suddenly asked Glyre what assurance he had that he would have paid the bet had he lost. As the answer was not satisfactory to Wilson he said that he would pay Glyre the amount if he met him in Chicago at the Palmer house on Nov. 16 and brought with him the $4,000 he had in bank in Highland just to show that he had that amount.

On the day agreed upon Glyre arrived in Chicago with his money. He was met at the Illinois Central station by one of the card manipulators, who told him that Wilson was not at the Palmer house, but was at the home of a friend in the suburbs and he would take him there. The two boarded a streetcar. From the terminus Glyre was compelled to walk half a mile. In a large vacant lot not far from Lake Michigan the other two confidence men were found. Wilson refused to pay over to Glyre the $4,000 unless he was given another trial at the game, and both put up their money. Glyre deposited his $4,000 on the ground, Wilson counted out an equal amount and laid it next to the first pile. In the manipulation cards that followed Glyre lost. Just at this time another man approached and said that he was a policeman and informed the men that they were under arrest for gambling. Wilson grabbed up both piles of money and ran off. The bogus policeman grabbed Glyre and the other two men and said that if they attempted to run off he would shoot them, as he did not intend to lose any more of his prisoners. The dispute was finally settled by the bogus policeman ordering the men to separate. Glyre was told to remain behind until the others were out of sight, and he did so.

Several hours later Glyre discovered that he had been swindled and returned to Highland. Monday he received a letter signed "J. E. McDonald," in which the writer, who was one of the men mixed up in the swindle, said that Wilson was in St. Louis and he would assist him in locating him. This letter was headed St. Louis, but had been written while on board a train, as it bore the postmark, "Evansville & Alton Railway Postoffice."

THE W. C. T. U.

Report on Woman's Temple Causes a Heated Discussion.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 22.—The presentation of the report of the executive committee for adoption brought out a heated discussion at the W. C. T. U. convention yesterday, as it was feared by adopting it the delegates would put themselves on record as opposing the Woman's temple report. Mrs. Carse insisted on its acceptance in the face of considerable opposition. Miss Willard acted as peacemaker, and the report was adopted. The report shows the affairs of the temple to be in a flourishing condition.

The report of the executive committee included the appropriation of $4,000 for the national superintendents, the organizers, and lecturers of the union into a board which will report at future conventions, the recommendation of the creation of a fund for the distribution of literature and a by-law providing that the state unions shall not be bound by the policy of laws of the national except in regard to total abstinence and the constitutional rulings of the national.

In the afternoon a resolution pledging the W. C. T. U. to maintain its attitude to the "only party which has dared thus far to put prohibition and equal suffrage into its platform," called forth some speeches of considerable warmth. As adopted the resolution commends any party that may embody the two principles for which the union contends, the women pledging themselves to use their votes, when they get them, in the interest of any "home protection" party, by whatever name called.

Immediately after adjournment Miss Willard was asked in what city the next convention should be held. She said: "It has not been decided yet, but it looks like Baltimore."

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Yesterday in the murder trial of Smith and Richardson, charged with lynching six negroes, Gen. Peters delivered a scorching arraignment of the sheriff, accusing him of being in sympathy with the prisoners and thwarting every effort to secure a conviction. He accused the sheriff of suppressing from the grand jury his son's knowledge of facts pertaining to the lynching, of providing the accused every facility for defense, and of such conduct in the summoning of men for jury service as made it impossible for the state to secure a fair panel. A mass meeting of citizens has been called to demand the removal of Sheriff McCarver.

The Gazette points out the opening of the Dardanelles to foreign warships would have a disastrous effect upon England; that it would necessitate a great increase in the British Mediterranean fleet. A number of troops from the military district of Odessa have been ordered to proceed to Vladivostok and from the Russian war port to the northeast of Korea. It is asserted these reinforcements are attached to the east entirely on account of the war with China and Japan. It should be added, however, this is not the first time vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet have passed through the Dardanelles on their way to Vladivostok.

Following the usual course the state department has notified Mr. Dun and also Minister Denby at Peking they are at liberty to transmit from China to Japan such direct peace overtures as the former desired to make. It is now for China to formulate its offer to Minister Denby. He in turn will transmit it to Minister Dun as China's direct offer. The reply of Japan is so conciliatory and receptive that it is pointed out Minister Dun's skill as a diplomat has scope for conspicuous service in terminating the war.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—In a leader the Post says Japan's reply to the United States shows the error of approaching Japan at the present juncture otherwise than by united action. Golden Jubilee Brings Services Full of Significance—But One of the Original Thirteen Members of the Church Present—Mrs. M. L. Beers' Historical Sketch.

Every seat was occupied in the Baptist church last evening at the semi-centennial jubilee services. Rev. Dr. Galusha Anderson of Chicago delivered the sermon which was an able discourse. The meeting was opened with a selection by the choir, followed by the reading of the scripture lesson by Dr. Anderson. Rev. S. P. Wilder of the Congregational church invoked divine blessings upon the congregation. Dr. Anderson's theme was "Christ Misunderstood." Christ's teachings were not even correctly understood by the apostles; the speaker declared. His mission wholly related to the kingdom of heaven and not to earthly kingdoms. He spoke eloquently concerning the life of Christ. His teachings, his miracles, Christ's life and teachings were misinterpreted the same as the teachings of many great men had been misinterpreted. John the Baptist misunderstood Christ as was shown by many of his sayings. When the apostles misunderstood Christ and Christ's mother did not understand him, it was no wonder that the people did not understand His teachings. The sermon was heard with deep interest.

Tried By Time and Fire.

It occurred to many in the congregation last night how truly "time tried and fire tested" had been their church. Despite the fact that it was organized by thirteen people and has had thirteen pastors, it has flourished. Twice have the Baptists of Janesville been burned out, once in 1867 and again in 1884, but in the face of their affliction they are the possessors of one of the finest churches in the city. Mrs. LaFayette Beers reviewed the history of the congregation and its work and her excellent paper was as follows:

The first sermon preached in Janesville was by J. Halstead, a Methodist itinerant, in 1837. The service was held in the bar room of the log tavern near the present location of Lappin's block. The liquors were hidden out of sight and the bar served as a pulpit. The next service was held under the oaks, upon the hillside of Main street.

Fifty years ago Rev. Jeremiah Murphy, a brisk young Irishman, came to do missionary work and during his ministry the First Baptist church of Janesville was organized on October 13, 1844. There were thirteen original constituent members.

The first house of worship was constructed during the summer of 1851, at a cost of $5,000 and dedicated on December of that year. In the tower was a bell costing $350. Subsequently this edifice was sold and in the interim before the completion of the second building the society established itself in the Hyatt House block. This temporary church was christened "The Baptist Tabernacle."

One dreary winter's night when the snow raged over the hills, the Hyatt house block was burned. Driven out from this home the society established itself in Lappin's hall, where services were continued until the second edifice was ready for occupancy. This was finished in 1868 and consumed by fire in 1884. A little after 6 o'clock, while the young people's meeting was in session, the roof ignited from the gas jets and in a few minutes the house was doomed. Homeless a second time by ravaging flames, the Congregational brethren offered the use of their house of worship. There was an exchange of courtesies. They furnished the church and the Baptist society the minister.

The third and present house of worship was completed in 1885 at a net cost above salvage of $22,000. Its total valuation is about $30,000. In 1891 the parsonage was bought at a cost of $3,500 by William Payne and presented to the church. Previous to this Mrs. Sarah Wilcox Judson died in San Jose, Cal., and made a bequest of $500 to the church. J. B. Crosby also gave liberally.

Missionary Work Flourished.

This church has always done efficient work in its missionary activities. Miss Clara Baldwin Cross, in Burma, receives aid through general channels of support. Clarence Antisdell, who was baptised here is now a missionary in Africa. The Juniors assist Miss Ames, who labors among the Chinese in San Francisco, Miss Simons, of Burma, also receives aid. The Sunday school is a year for the support of a bible reader in connection with Miss Mary Dunwiddie's work in Swatow, China. The Y. P. S. C. E. was organized Sept. 7, 1886, with twenty-one charter members. At present there are eighty-three active members, twenty-three associate and twenty-eight honorary members. Those who have served as its presidents are William Street, Alex. Grove, Ida Fales, Elizabeth Webster, Clara Morse, Clarence Treadwell, Lizzie Morris, David Tennant. The Junior society is especially vigorous in its work. Its leaders have been Jennie Rowe, Eloise Palmer, Gertrude Stoddard and Maude McDonald.

Pastors Who Have Served.

The pastoral office of the church has been filled as follows, with date of commencement of official work: Revs. J. Murphy, 1844; J. Eldredge, 1846; O. Hackett, 1847; O. J. Dearborn, 1850; W. H. Douglass, 1854; G. Anderson, 1856; E. J. Goodspeed, 1858; M. G. Hodge, 1865; F. W. Bakeman, 1872; J. Bates, 1873; W. S. Roberts, 1875; F. L. Chapell, 1878; M. G. Hodge, 1881.

Rev. M. G. Hodge has served as pastor of the Baptist society for two terms of six and thirteen years with an interval of about ten years' absence. He was born at Hardwick, Vt., Feb. 20, 1822. He is descended from English, Puritan and French Huguenot ancestry. He was educated in his native state, and was ordained in 1843 and assigned to labor in Vermont. Subsequently he had pastoral charges in Stillwater, New York, and Brooklyn. Coming to Wisconsin his first charge was at Beaver Dam. Returning to New England he was district secretary of the Home Missionary society of New England. In 1865 he first came to Janesville. In the interval of his absence he had pastoral charges in Kalamazoo, Mich., and Milwaukee. He received the degree of A. M. from the University of Vermont, also from Rochester University in 1849.

Tribute To Dr. Hodge.

Thirteen years later he received the degree of D. D. from the University of Chicago. He was united in marriage in 1846 to Harriet Kelam, at Trassburg, Vt. She was one of those chosen ones of whom it was sufficient praise to say she was a helpmeet. In the language of a fellow clergyman "Dr. Hodge feeds his flock like a shepherd, gathering the lambs in his arms and carrying them in his bosom. He is a faithful herald of Christ watching for souls." His prominent characteristic is that of sternness, in tenderness, which Longfellow ascribed to the Puritans, and he moves among his flock with kindly ministrations, whispering patience and fatherly love. "His pastoral labors are not confined to this church. The record of his usefulness is written upon our hearts, and by our firesides, in our sick rooms, and by the graves of our loved ones, where so many have felt the balm of his sympathy," said the historian. "It is a record that will only be finished when the angel of silence places upon it the final seal."

Rev. E. J. Goodspeed was pastor from 1858 to 1865. He died at Columbus, S. C. Rev. O. J. Dearborn died in 1873 and Rev. W. H. Douglass November 19, 1885.

Many Voices Silent.

"The history of fifty years of religion life in a community is a record filled with light and shadows. With saddened impressions we review page by page, the records of each day, month and year.

"Where are the friends of long ago? How many voices are silent? How many tired feet have passed through the door that never outward swings? "Fifty years of life! What has been our record as a church, as individuals?

Has it been written in joy or pain? Is it blotted by angels' tears? Will we fear to review it again By the light of eternal years?

"At this milestone in our history let us reflect that the records of the future are still unwritten. What shall the record be? Shall we, workers of today, take up the burden of humble christian service, journeying onward, hand in hand, assisting each other in affliction, proving ourselves kindly one to another in brotherly love, always looking upward for guidance?"

Only one of the original thirteen members were present at the jubilee services. She was Mrs. Sarah White Deans of South Dakota. When the roll of members was called appropriate responses were made and letters were read by three former pastors, Rev. F. W. Bakeman, of Chelsea, Mass.; Rev. S. Roberts, of Burlington, Vermont; Rev. F. L. Chapell, Boston. Letters were also read from Prof. C. A. Hutchins of Madison, and Joseph Crosby, Mrs. Hatch of Washington, D. C., daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hodge, and other former members of the church.

TO WORK FOR SOULS
IN THE BOWER CITY

NOTED MISSIONARY WORKERS TO BE HERE.

Rev. A. L. Cheeney's Evangelistic Quartette and C. W. Merrill, a Successful Man in that Work to Hold Meetings at the Baptist and Congregational Churches.

Evangelists noted in their labor will begin work in Janesville Tuesday, December 4, and the meetings will be held at the Baptist and Congregational churches. Much interest is manifested in the work. C. W. Merrill, the evangelist who will lead the exercises, took his college course in Beloit, graduating in 1870, and also took a seminary course in the Chicago Theological seminary. For ten years he was a pastor in Minnesota and was four years superintendent of missions in Nebraska. For the last six years he has been in evangelistic work. He is a man of wide experience in both pastoral and evangelistic lines, and brings to the work rare gifts of mind and heart. One Wisconsin pastor has written in regard to him:

"He is tender and earnest in spirit, practical and wise in methods and happy and successful in work." Mr. Merrill is assisted by four singers who have organized under the name of the "Cheeney Male Quartet."

B. T. Williams, the first tenor of the quartet, sometimes called the "Welsh tenor," took three years of voice culture under Prof. Arthur S. Kimball of Oberlin Conservatory and sang two years in the Oberlin Glee club as first tenor and soloist.

Sang With Moody at Chicago.

Mr. Williams was a member of the famous Kimball quartet, which sang at many of the large prohibition conventions and was with Moody during his World's fair evangelistic campaign. It was of this quartet that Miss Frances Willard wrote that in point of "culture and refinement" she considered them the "best quartet of the many that appeared" at their conventions. Mr. Williams has a voice of unusual clearness and range, taking high D with ease and accuracy.

C. A. Broughton, 2d tenor, was a member of the Wisconsin Glee Club for two years, and took voice culture under Professor Parker, of the University. He has a very smooth, sympathetic tenor voice, and renders the gospel songs very effectively.

W. B. Olds, baritone, has recently joined the quartet. He comes from a family widely known in missionary and musical circles, and is a grandson of Rev. O. F. Curtis, of pioneer fame. He studied music under Professor H. D. Sleeper, of Beloit, and was a member of the Beloit College Glee Club for three years, and its leader last year. He adds greatly to the efficiency of the quartet.

F. A. Porter, second bass has made music a study for years. He took voice culture under Prof. Root of Chicago, and has a rich flexible voice, full of pathos and power. His whistling is spoken of as "incomparable." The whole "force" is under the direction of Rev. R. L. Cheney of Janesville.

LIVE WIRE THREATENED FIREMEN

Power House Had to Shut Down—Quick Run Made For Box 36.

The fire department was confronted with a very dangerous "live" street railway wire at the ware house fire. Electrician Kline went up the aerial ladder and cut the connection preventing serious accidents. Orders were given for the firemen to move carefully until the power house was notified and the dynamos stopped.

Mrs. J. A. Hoskins timed the fire department when box 36 was pulled for the Clifton street fire, and report that the first hose carriage arrived at the box in five minutes. The distance traveled was fully one mile, including the climbing of East Milwaukee street hill.

The man who pulled box 16 Tuesday night can have a large leather medal by calling the fire department headquarters.

LIMITED MAY GO THROUGH BELOIT

The Line City People Think a Change Can Be Made.

Beloit people now think that a change may be made whereby another important train may be given Beloit on the Northwestern road. The St. Paul limited going south, which now runs by the way of Janesville and Clinton, it is said down that way, will soon run via Janesville and Beloit. Agent Howell of that town, has long been urging this arrangement. Nothing official is given out about the matter as yet, however.

A Most Dreaded and Awful Danger.

What Makes So Many People Drop Dead in the Street?

Why Are Homes Filled With the Weak and Nervous? Weak Nerves, Weak Heart and Exhausted Brain!

These Are the Causes and They Must be Overcome.

It is a weakness, a sin, a crime to neglect your health. Death has terrors for everyone, but people do not seem to think much about it until they are about to break down. Then anguish fills the soul. Then despair replaces ambition, and weakness and exhaustion take the place of strength.

Have you palpitation, fluttering and feeling of weakness and uneasiness around the heart, dizziness, faintness and shortness of breath? Then look to your heart! It is dangerously weak! Sometimes there is a pain around the heart. With these symptoms there is generally loss of appetite, gas, weakness, anxiety, forebodings, despondency, and extreme nervousness. Such a condition is equal to a deadly serpent coiled about you, whose venomous fangs are about to sink into your flesh and draw your life's blood. Read the remarkable experience of Joseph Booth, Esq., the widely known superintendent of Torrey's Razor Manufactory, Worcester, Mass.:

"Some time ago," he says, "I was taken with a terrible dizziness and palpitation of the heart, which so weakened me that I could not stand. A terrible burning sensation would be felt over the heart, and at the same time it would palpitate in a dangerous manner."

"I had an all-gone feeling, was terrible weak and despondent, and a horrible foreboding was continually over me. My food distressed me terribly and I had severe pains. I was so weak and sick I thought I should die. I was also troubled greatly with gas."

"After trying several remedies for my sufferings without success, I was convinced that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy was the only medicine that would cure me. I saw that many had been cured of the same complaint by it. I commenced using it, and the result justifies my confidence."

"My troubles have all left me after using this great medicine. My heart disease is cured, and I can eat anything without distress. Dizziness no longer troubles me, and I am cheerful and bright, with no fits of despondency. In fact I am a new man. I advise everyone to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is a wonderful medicine."

Everybody is unanimous in proclaiming this great remedy, the most wonderful in the world. Why don't you try it? That weak organ will soon give out. Do you want it to? Then take the one sure cure for it, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene, is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

DIPHTHERIA RAGES AT BROOKLYN

People Thought It Was Croup Until They Got Dr. Palmer's Opinion.

Dr. Palmer left but scant joy for Brooklyn people when he left that town after he was called there to decide upon the nature of an epidemic. The people of that flourishing Dane county village are considerably excited over the discovery of diphtheria in that place and are criticizing each other severely for calling the disease membranous croup. The whole community have been exposed by attending the public funerals of two children. Dr. Palmer and Dr. Smith of Evansville were called and pronounced the disease by its right name and ordered strict quarantine. Three people have died and several others are dangerously sick.

LOCAL ENGINEERS
FAVOR LICENSES

JANESVILLE LODGE ARE FOR AN EXAMINATION BILL

National Association of Which the Bower City Organization of Stationary Engineers is a Branch, Working For the Passage of such a Measure.

The members of the Wisconsin branches of the National Association of Stationary Engineers in which Janesville is represented by a lodge will make another attempt at the coming session of the legislature to secure the enactment of law requiring the examination and licensing of stationary engineers similarly to the system enforced by the United States government respecting steamboat engineers. A committee of three appointed to draft the measure has completed its work. The bill provides for the appointment of five examiners within sixty days after the passage of the act, whose duty it shall be to issue certificates to such persons as pass a satisfactory examination. No person shall be eligible to hold the office of examiner who has not had at least ten years of actual experience as a stationary engineer, of temperate habits, good character and not interested in the sale of any kind of steam machinery.

Must Have Credentials.

He must give a bond of $2,000. A fine of from $25 to $50 is imposed for persons without certificates who run machinery. There are four classes of engineers provided for. Chief engineers must take oath that they have had charge of machinery five years; second-class engineers three years' experience, and must be capable of running a 100-horse power engine. Charges may be brought against an engineer for permitting his engine to get out of order, and if proven his license must be revoked, and cannot be renewed until after six months. A fine of $200 for constructing a faulty boiler is provided. Locomotive engineers and engineers of fire engines are exempt from the provisions of the proposed bill. Engineers are to pay fees of $5, $3, $2 and $1 for the respective classes. The examiners are to receive $1,200 a year and expenses. "We are heartily in favor of the idea," said Engineer Putnam of the Water company, "and our local lodge would like to see the bill pass."

TONIGHT'S WATER WORKS MEETING.

The citizens' meeting, called by the mayor at Concordia hall, tonight, is non-political and non-partisan.

As the Gazette understands it, the mayor wants an expression of opinion from the tax payers for the enlightenment of the common council as to what is the wisest course for that body to pursue in dealing with the litigation that has recently been commenced by the city against the water company. The question to be discussed is not so much a question of personal grievance, as it is a question of public welfare. The common council has felt warranted in entering a legal complaint against the water company, and Mayor Thoroughgood very naturally desires to know whether this action meets with the approval of the public.

Nobody will question that the interests of the city are of vital importance. The water company or any other corporation holding valuable franchises should be held responsible for neglect or abuse.

After peaceable methods have been exhausted, the law, if necessary, should be invoked. The question for the citizens to determine tonight, is whether the litigation in the present case is warranted, or whether other methods should be adopted.

The object of the present suit as set forth in the complaint is to determine the correctness of a statement furnished by the water company at the request of the common council, in compliance with certain conditions contained in the charter and with a view to city ownership should the city decide to purchase. The figures furnished amounted to something over $400,000. Accompanying this statement was a communication, stating that if the city desired to buy the plant the company would be pleased to confer with a committee on a basis much lower than the figures contained in the statement. However, no conference has yet been held.

The expression of opinion tonight, will doubtless determine the method of settlement of the question. It is important, and not only should the meeting be well attended, but the subject should be thoroughly discussed.

Col. Breckinridge will try to make a living as a public lecturer, his first subject being "Ten years among tariff reformers." He would be more likely to make a hit by lecturing on "Ten years of hypocrisy."

There is one bad thing about a permanent commission to investigate strikes. Somebody will always be trying to get up a strike, in order to make the members of the commission earn their salaries.

Alabama will take long steps backward if its legislature passes a bill, now before it, for a revival of the infamously practiced practice of the state convicts to mine operators.

It is to Wall street, and not to Washington, that you must go if you wish to ascertain the financial intentions of this administration.

Somebody may find those popgun bills loaded, and if they are taken out of the senatorial pigeon holes some one may get hurt.

Senator Brice expresses his opinion of Mr. Cleveland with all the abandon of a man who has no "pull" on the pap mill.

Editor Charles A. Dana has at last found out that it was a case of wrinkles in the working man's stomach.

The defeated politicians aspirants for state in Congress are open to proposition.

als for the promulgation of a new isms.

Mr. Cleveland will find the financial question quite as heavily charged with political dynamite as the tariff was.

Objector Holman has recovered his wind sufficiently to talk about what struck him and where he was hit.

Congressman Springer has turned up at Washington with his talking apparatus in good condition.

Five Years Ago This Month

We began our operations and advertising in this city. It is not too much to say that today there are five good homes here where there was one such before. We mean by this five homes with modern improvements, where one with such improvements was before we came. What influence our work for five years has had on this state of things you who read may judge.

We began our business in Riverview park; we gave lot buyers in that addition what they never had gotten anywhere else in Janesville. We gave them the best of streets, a beautiful park, artesian water to every lot, good lights, cheap and reliable transportation, our "Bus," and in short all modern improvements. The homes sprang up in that section as by magic. Old fogies visited us and sympathized with us. Croakers sat around on fences and the railings of the bridges, expectorated tobacco juice and predicted failure and all dire results. Riverview park grew and grew and continued to grow, till lots that we offered at $200 to $300 each have sold the past year, the dullest of dull years, at $1,000 to $1,500 each, and nearly every lot there is sold. Our business grew. "Glen Elva" followed "Riverview." Other additions followed that, till up to date we have platted over five hundred acres of the best lots in Janesville and have marketed a fair proportion of them.

In our Riverview Park deal no sooner had we begun to offer lots, homesites, there than our friend, the enemy, began by saying there is no water there and wells will cost so much to sink to water there that the lots are worthless. It is a fact that one of the daily papers in this city made that statement in print. We put in $9000 worth of private water mains before May 1st the next year 1890. Next the cry was, "dark, oh! horribly dark is Riverview Park" and that became a battle cry of the croakers who didn't dare do any business themselves nor did it want to let any one else do any. Electric lights at our expense went in and were burned at our expense for years. Three years of the five we have been in the city we have paid out between $1200 to $1500 per year for street lights. We are not doing much in that line just now but dare do it again. Water and lights were in, what else did the croakery see that Riverview Park lacked? One day one or two of them undertook to walk out there and as the e were no saloons on the way in which to rest, one of them died from over fatigue and then the cry went up, it is so far to Riverview Park that you have to start the day before to get home to dinner the following week. Water was good they said in its place, lights were nice in the heat of the city, but way out there they were no good—a man could not get there unless he hired a carriage at an expense of fifty cents and then he would get tired before he reached there. No matter that half the people there in Janesville lived twice as far from the post office as those who lived in Riverview park did; to go up there if you walked would be fatal, for hadn't a dry croaker reported that his friend did die on the road? Water mains had not scared us, lights were within our reach but "no cars" ran to Riverview park and never would run anywhere near there, while to two other sections of the city mule cars did run. This seemed to these people to settle it. One morning we started our "Bus," a better, prompter, cleaner, faster and cheaper conveyance than the city had ever had anywhere. We ran that "Bus" until we had paid the electric road a bonus to go down South Main street and thus brought Riverview park, any part of it within from three to eight minutes of the Myers house corner. Riverview park speaks for itself, we don't need to eulogize. It has today the best class of citizens and the most of them of any equal area in any part of the city that is not over four times as old. It is today the cream of the residence portion of Janesville. Just after the last presidential election we platted East Riverview Park. We put in that winter and the following spring, water mains, over $2000 worth of them. We built streets, beautiful bridges and other improvements and offered lots then at $400 each. There were there and are not now any lots in Janesville at $500, $600 or $700 that are as desirable as these East Riverview Park homesites. Nearly all of them are within a mile of the postoffice, none of them are over a mile and one-eighth. They overlook the city and country, and are every way desirable. The only thing these same old croakers have been able to say, is that they are too far away and have no way to ride down from them. We are five years older, five times better known than we were in 1889, November, when we made our debut here. We have about five times the faith in the future of Janesville that we had in November, 1889. We are going to put East Riverview Park lots within 7 to 10 minutes of the postoffice. Within three and a half cents of the heart of things and we are going to do it quick, but that is another story. We are the same as ever, Yours Very Truly,

Geo. L. & Sarah H. Carrington.

"I am happy," said F. S. Winslow this morning. "I have succeeded in raising quite a little money for W. H. Gallup, whose house burned Tuesday. This morning I sent them four woolen blankets, four comfortables, fifty yards of sheeting, two mattresses and a big bill of groceries, and have funds left to buy them something else needed, and I want to thank all the liberal-hearted people who contributed so willingly."

CROWD OF BAD BOYS BEAT JAMES COX

YOUNGSTERS WHO DID THE WORK ARE BEING FOUND

Claude Burnett Who Figured in the Performance, Fined $10 Today By Judge Phelps—Two Young Boys Were Drunk—Beloit Assault Case Continued Three Weeks.

Claude Burnett was brought into the municipal court this morning on charge of assaulting James Cox, the man who was called to his door one night last month and brutally beaten by an unknown crowd of men. It now transpires that the people who did the job were youngsters. Frank Smith was the first one arrested and today Burnett was adjudged guilty, the court holding that while perhaps Burnett did not strike Cox with the stone or coupling pin, that he was with the party, and knew who did throw the missiles. He therefore found him guilty, and sentenced him to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs, or twelve days in jail. There are three more boys implicated as much as Burnett.

Benjamin Dixon and Frank Smith, two young men not out of their teens, were in the municipal court this morning on charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, and each got ten days in jail.

The case of the state against R. W. Murphy and William Murphy, both of Beloit charged with assault, was continued until December 17, at 10 a. m. George B. Ingersoll, of Beloit, appeared for the defendants, being his first case in the municipal court. District Attorney Wheeler appeared for the state.

MAY BE A MOB.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 20, 1894. MR. ED. J. SMITH, JANESVILLE, WIS. DEAR ED:—We have just lately purchased the entire production of a well-known fine clothing manufacturer in New York. The total purchase amounts to about $100,000. I have selected from the lot about $10,000 worth of men's, boys' and children's suits and overcoats for the Janesville store. Now, Ed., this is not a bankrupt stock of old, refused clothing, but they are all fine, new, fresh goods, made within the past 35 days, but owing to the late tailors' strike in New York city, these goods were delayed in the making until too late to be put on the wholesale market for the season. In consideration of this fact we purchased the entire production for 48 cents on the dollar and if you want this lot of clothing sent to you, you will be enabled to give the people of Janesville and Rock county a benefit in the way of fine, reliable clothing at prices never before heard of in the history of the state. I wish you to place them on sale at once and close the entire lot during the next thirty days. Would advertise them thoroughly, and at the prices you can name on these goods, you will come near selling all the clothing sold in town during the sale. Have sent you the twenty-five black freize ulsters. Also the thirty-five men's black and blue chevrons to sell at $10. Weather here cold; five below zero yesterday morning. Business very good. With kind regards.

Yours very truly, T. J. ZIEGLER, Manager Browning, King & Co.

BELOIT HAS AN $80,000 MILL FIRE

Salmon Brothers' Flouring Plant Destroyed—Berlin Works in Danger. Fire leveled Salmon Brothers mill in Beloit last night, causing an $80,000 loss. The mill, a four-story stone building, was destroyed, together with much flour and wheat and the complete outfit of improved machinery. The alarm was sounded at 11:30, the building then being a mass of flames inside. The deluge set and seven streams of water were used, but to no effect. For a time it was thought that the Berlin Works would go, as they were afire several times.

IS ONE OF THE ROBBERS.

Fat Crowe, Under Arrest, Confesses to Sharing in the St. Joseph Heist.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 22.—Pat Crowe, one of the train robbers who operated in this vicinity last spring, arrived last night from Milwaukee, where he was found in the work house serving a ninety day sentence for vagrancy. Crowe has confessed and other members of the gang are known to the officers, who expect to soon have them under arrest. The night of May 10 the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs train was held up and robbed one mile north of the Francis street depot and the express car looted of a sum estimated at $50,000. No definite trace of the robbers was found until a week ago, when Capt. Frank Murray of the Burlington secret service and the Pinkertons at Chicago located Crowe, one of the leaders, in Milwaukee. Crowe robbed a jewelry store in Denver a year ago of $2,500 in diamonds. He also shot two Chicago policemen in a Clark street resort.

Want Some Revenue Paid in Gold.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—It is expected that very soon after the meeting of congress a bill will be introduced to provide that a certain percentage of the revenues of the government shall be paid in gold. It is doubtful whether during the short session this measure can be got through congress, but a very determined effort, it is asserted, will be made in that direction.

Nearing Completion.

Our handsome new store room is nearing completion. Only a few more days when we will show you the finest dry goods store in the state with all the modern improvements. Today we name some prices in our advertisement on the 8th page that are "competitor killers," goods less at retail than they pay wholesale—but we are dividing the profits, and were never afraid to herald our prices to the world. No "dark sale" here. BORT, BAILEY & CO.

Electric Eggs.

Prof. Ambrose E. Benningger, the famous electrical expert, has succeeded by means of his "poultryphone" in hatching eggs by electricity. One hour and thirty-seven minutes after a fresh egg is placed in the "volt chamber" it is ready to be transferred to the ohm chest, and in from two minutes and fifteen seconds to three minutes later the little chick breaks through the shell. It is a peculiarity of the chickens thus artificially hatched that they throw off sparks when their downy feathers are stroked the wrong way.

FALL BRINGS $2500 TO MILO COLLINS

FULTON MAN WINS HIS DAMAGE SUIT.

The Jury in Judge Bennett's Court Bring in a Verdict For that Amount to Compensate Him For Injuries He Received By the Collapse of a Bridge.

Milo C. Collins will get $2,500 for injuries sustained in falling through a bridge in the town of Fulton. That was the finding of the jury before whom the case was tried in the circuit court. The plaintiff was crossing the Catfish creek, in Fulton, on September 7, 1892, driving a span of horses attached to a light wagon loaded with milk. The bridge broke down, letting the plaintiff and his team into the water. It was maintained that the plaintiff sustained permanent injuries, more especially to his nervous system. He brought action claiming $5,000, the jury cutting the claim in the middle. Fethers, Jeffries, Fifield & Matheson appeared for the plaintiff and Smith & Pierce for the town.

The case of Manning against Wilcox is now on trial. This is an action brought to recover personal damages by John Manning against Charles T. Wilcox. It is claimed the plaintiff ran a cigar store in a building owned by Wilcox, that Wilcox forced plaintiff out of doors, thus destroying his business.

A Busy Jewelry Scene.

One man buying handsome watch fobs, two others selling gold watches, W. F. Hayes fitting glasses to an elderly gentleman's eyes, is the scene that was presented at F. C. Cook & Co.'s handsome jewelry store this morning. Watch fobs are all the rage again. They make beautiful Christmas presents, and the line of gold watches, diamonds and silverware F. C. Cook & Co. have on hand cannot be surpassed in Chicago. As an optician W. F. Hayes leads. In fact it always pays to buy from a house of this kind as they are reliable and you can depend upon what they say.

Highly Complimented.

We began to deliver Curtiss Bros. fine canned fruit and vegetables day before yesterday, and we could fill a whole page with the many testimonials or compliments we have received about it. The people had no idea it was so fine. It is, without a doubt, the best in the United States. We bought a big lot of it, and as we are the only ones in the city handling these goods, we can save you about 15 per cent. If you order now, as we could not buy so cheap again, as we would not want as much. Ask to see it. GRUBB BROS.

Great Attraction.

I have a sample lot of composition fine art work, statuary figures, panels, bisque figures, brackets, etc.; also new novelties in holiday presents. In order to make room for above I will close out my present stock of wall paper, borders, pictures, room mouldings, picture mouldings, etchings, engravings, paints, oils, brushes, etc., regardless of cost. J. L. GRIFFITH, 9 South Main Street.

Among Friends.

The popular chord has been struck at last. During the past two weeks, since we started our great cash and credit sale, whereby we are selling as cheap for credit as for cash, we have made more friends than ever before. We mean business, no humbug about this sale, we want to get rid of our furniture, and we are willing you should have the use of it and pay for it weekly or monthly. Deals, combination ones, $10, nice Christmas presents. Frank D. Kimball.

Everybody Welcome.

The Concordia society want all those who have received invitations to their series of parties for the season of 1894 and 1895 to be sure and attend the ball to be given at Concordia hall Tuesday, November 27. This entertainment is one of the series and will be a grand affair. MRS. CERTUI'S YOUTH AND OLD AGE

TOUCHING STORY OF ONE WOMAN'S WOES.

In Youth She Danced Before the Crowned Heads of Europe—In Old Age She Seeks Charity and Lives in a Hovel—Life of Mrs. Ceruti.

A LITTLE OLD woman who lives in a small flat at 52 Macdonough street, New York, has seen more of the ups and downs of life than falls to the lot of most mortals. She has appeared before kings and emperors and has been the idol of great cities. Her arms and neck have been covered with diamonds and precious stones, the gifts of admirers, and now in her old age, with a sick husband, far older than herself, dependent upon her, she earns a living for both in such a menial fashion that it is a wonder that her brave heart has not long since given way beneath the burden.

The name of the woman is Amalie Ceruti, and she was born in Breslau, Silesia, fifty years ago. Her father was a lawyer, a man of position, but poor, horribly poor, knowing such heart-breaking poverty as can only be found among German officials. Amalie Voster was the eldest child of a large family. In those days the only way for a woman to earn a living honestly was on the stage, and on the stage she went. She was small, with a pretty, graceful figure and a fine, intelligent face. She made her first appearance in her native city, and her success was instantaneous. Those were the days when the ballet was a matter of first, not of secondary importance, and the gifted young dancer speedily made her way to the ranks of her profession. She went from city to city in Germany and Austria and was everywhere triumphantly received.

In an evil hour, she says, she was induced to come to this country. That was in 1871, when the Kirslys first came over from Hungary to startle the United States with their unique productions. "Humpty Dumpty" was first produced and the young German dancer made a hit in pantomime.

Then came the great spectacular pieces like the "Black Crook," and the "White Fawn." She became a member of the "Black Crook" company playing at the Academy of Music. In the same company were Bonfanti, the beautiful, who afterwards married the son of Gov. John T. Hoffman and retired from the stage, and Emily and Betty Rigl, though in those days they spelled their names "Regal."

There was another member of the company, the ballet master, in fact—Baptistin Ceruti, known on the stage as Baptistin, and between him and the fair haired dancer a strong attachment arose. They were not contented with being happy, they wished to be happier, "and so they were married" in 1873. Everything went well for a while. Her husband's services were in demand, and they had no troubles. He was nearly twenty years older than she, and had been married before, but there was no cloud on their married life. She was as fond of her little stepson, Louis, as if he had been her own child. Whenever she wanted an engagement she found one with Strakosch or the doughty Col. Maple-son, and on one occasion she took part in Adelaide Neilson's production of "Much Ado About Nothing."

Then the clouds began to gather. Her husband became desperately ill. Managers suddenly discovered that Ceruti and his wife were not so young as they once were. Engagements were hard to get, and like all people of their class, bohemians to the core, they had saved but little money.

Louis has grown up and is a skilled etcher and photographer. But he has found it hard to get employment, and there are four mouths to feed, for he married a girl as poor as themselves.

Mme. Ceruti's troubles had made her a little flighty. Managers shut their doors on her. Her husband was growing old and feeble every day, until finally it seemed as if there was nothing between them and hopeless poverty.

A few weeks ago Mme. Ceruti went to a lawyer and told him an odd story of how she had been robbed of the very last of her jewels nearly five years ago. Necessary proofs were lacking; she had no friends. It seemed impossible to convince the authorities that a woman so poor as she could have been robbed. But the lawyer is investigating the matter, and perhaps after all the necessary evidence may be got that will bring comfort and ease to her for a time at least. Mme. Ceruti is still erect and alert. She talks French as well as German and English, and speaks with keen regret of the lost glories of the ballet, of the Vestris, the Ellsler and Taglioni. She is still proud of her slender feet, with arched insteps, which she showed with a touch of old coquetry. With all her troubles she has not lost hope, and looks forward to the future with a faith that is almost pitiful.

$1,000,000 BRIDEGROOM.

Young Mr. Weglid, Who Wedded a New York Lady Aged 73.
Franklyn Reglid, the youth who has captured the Lorillard-Ronalds $1,000,-

000 fortune and aged bride tagged to the money, has taken the part of a young aristocrat in one of Mr. Daly's farces. Mr. Reglid is a pale wraith, not particularly sensitive and snrcharged with a priceless belief in himself and destiny. He is enthusiastic, dramatic in a mild way and suggests in manner and personal appearance a singular youthfulness and exaltation of spirit. He is effeminate to a degree occasionally laughable and quite intelligent and not without a certain adaptation for the stage. Mr. Reglid was married in New York the other day to a lady aged 73 and worth a million.

The Oldest Book.

The oldest book in the world, according to a writer in the London Literary World, is the "Prisse" Papyrus, now at the Bibliotheque Nationale, in Paris. The title is "Precepts of Ptahhotep, Viceroy of Assa, King of the South and North." This work was written about 3350 B. C., comprises sixteen pages, and is divided into forty-four chapters. It consists of rules how to govern wisely. Ptahhotep uses sixteen times the name of "God" in his work, and always in the singular. His concluding words are: "I am now one hundred and ten years old, and have written this book myself from beginning to end." An English translation has been made by Professor Osgood. Together with this papyrus a few leaves of a still older work have been found, which is supposed to have been written by Kakimni, Viceroy of the King Seneferu, of the third dynasty. These leaves are older than the pyramids, and go back to the year 3760 B. C.

AMELIE CERUTI.

After their savings were gone, what was the nearest refuge? Why, the mount de piete, as she calls it—the pawnshop, of course. So the pretty baubles went, one by one, to buy food and clothes and to keep the wolf from the door. Occasionally they would get a few weeks' engagement, she as a ballet mistress and he as ballet master. But they had felt hunger and want and their spirit was gone. Perhaps they were not made of the stuff that heroes and heroines are made of, able to conquer fate. Anyhow, things went from bad to worse.

The last engagement Ceruti had was with Pain, five years ago, and her last appearance was in the German opera at the Metropolitan opera house, nearly as long ago. How have they lived since? It is always hard to tell how the other half lives, and no one but themselves can tell the story of their struggles. He is a free mason, and his brothers have not forgotten him.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 24th N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows: "Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully." We say to all, try these remedies. —Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892. These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Congress and Seeds.

Secretary Morton has tried to reform the government distribution of agricultural seeds. After the passage of a bill by the present congress allowing each member a clerk, the secretary notified members that the seeds would be furnished them for distribution by their clerks, thus saving the salaries of clerks employed to mail seeds to addresses given by congressmen. The house agricultural appropriation bill has had many reform features changed by the senate, and as reported from the conference will compel the secretary to send out $160,000 worth of seeds directly from the department to addresses furnished, and to notify the receivers. For this work eight clerks will be required. The provision that seeds should be of rare varieties only, has been struck out.

Pollination of the Pear.

The department at Washington has issued a pamphlet of nearly 200 pages on the influences and changes wrought in the flowers and fruit of the pear, and more particularly in the Bartlett, by dusting them with pollen from other varieties, such as Anjou, Angouleme, Winter Nells and Clapp. These changes are occasionally considerable, but some credit must be ascribed to season and to skill in pruning and culture. The influence of the stock is sometimes important. The subject is interesting, and changes may be obtained by future experiments; but it must be remembered that results are only the changes of varieties, and that none of them are specific; one variety does not hop across the line through this agency.

IN THE HEART OF A TREE.

A Lock of Woman's Hair That Farmer Flint Discovered.

David Flint, who lives near Pike, N. Y., chopped down a maple tree at the roadside opposite his home the other day. The tree, owing to its great size, has been for years a landmark in that vicinity. It was sixty feet high and four feet in diameter. In splitting up the great logs the tree made he found in the butt log, five feet from the lower end and near the heart of the tree, a lock of soft, dark-brown hair a foot long. One end of the lock was in a hole three and a half inches deep and half an inch in diameter, into which it was fastened by an oak pin which had been driven into the hole.

Ninety successive rings or layers of wood in the tree had grown over the hair and the pin, showing that they had been driven into the tree ninety years ago, when the maple was less than a foot in girth. The lock of hair is as glossy and with as much apparent vitality as if it had just been severed from the head that bore it.

The opinion among many is that the woman whose hair is thus so singularly brought to light after nearly a century was the victim of some Indian massacre and had been fastened by her hair to the maple while her captors tortured her. The more likely theory is, though, that the person to whom the tress belonged was a believer in the superstition of the early pioneers that certain maladies could be cured if the sufferer had a lock of her hair driven into a tree, fastened by an oak plug and then cut off, provided the patient thereupon walked away from the tree to the eastward and never looked at the severed lock again.

Do not be imposed upon by unscrupulous dealers, who will sell you a mixture of Seidlitz Powder or Glauber Salt as "Improved Carlsbad Salt" or "Artificial Carlsbad Salt," "German Salt," or under other names.

THE WIDOWED FARMER.

Since Hanner died the sun don't shine so bright,
The stars don't twinkle near so keen at night,
The church bell Sunday mornin' ain't the cheer
It had when she was here,
Since Hanner died.

The very chickens misses Hanner's care
And go round with a sorter lonesome air.
There ain't no kind of joy about the place
Without her smile on face
Since Hanner died.

The garden tools hangs in the apple trees;
The hoes and shovels air a-killin' off the peas.
There's no one here to hoe the taters now
Er feed the hogs an' cow
Since Hanner died.

I s'pose, of course, I'd er be resigned,
But when I go out in the shed an' find
The ax she chopped the wood with all them
Years
I wet it with my tears
Since Hanner died.

BARRED OUT.

Bright petals fell softly on the white tablecloth, glass and silver glittered in the gaslight, and two people sat moodily opposite each other over dessert, one apparently too indifferent and the other too abstracted to renew the conversation that had dwindled to a desultory end with the departure of the servant.

The man, though not in his first youth, was handsome but for the lines in his forehead that revealed a latent discontent. The woman was fair haired and beautiful. Her smooth skin and delicate white hands told of luxury and ease and a life that knew not the toil and toil of penury or the harsh buffets of a workaday world. Yet tonight her heart was busy with a fancied grievance and oppressed with vague portent.

The husband had long ceased to invite his wife's confidence, stung by her growing, unaccountable coldness, and, all too conscious of the disparity in their ages, silently but bitterly acknowledged that his marriage had been a mistake and left her to her own devices. There were times when a pardonable desire for explanation almost overcame him, but pride always checked the query that rose to his lips, and he went on blaming himself for his shortsightedness in the passive endurance of an empty fashionable life.

If he had asked that searching question, she could not have answered it, hardly knowing that the ennu of repletion had made her capricious and unwilling to believe her whims had driven them apart. So, too thoughtless and inexperienced to attempt a redemption of the waning homage that was still her own, she turned like a wayward child to the first sympathetic ear to be consoled for the mischief she had wrought.

And the consolation became so sweet! There was a certain danger about it that attracted and brought a strange excitement into her idle life—it not only soothed her ruffled feelings, but almost crushed out of memory the grievance it had come to deplore.

Only sometimes, when stormy weather kept husband and wife together for some hours, until he was able to go off to his club and she to her friends, or when the servant left them sitting silently apart, even in the genial after dinner hour, the bitter, unjust sense of injury was paramount.

She rose, daintily shaking out the folds of her silk gown. Her husband held the door open, and as she swept past him secretly admired the poise of her proud little head and the thick, natural wave of golden hair gathered into wonderful curves and loops. The faint flush on her cheeks, her downcast eyes—even the detail of her jet trimmed dress—were in his mind as he went back, sighing, to his solitary cigar.

She ran up stairs to her room with an anxious glance at the tall clock on the landing that ticked out a solemn monotonous warning from the depths of its rigid heart, and unlocking an antique cabinet discovered in one of its mysterious recesses a note which she read with a reflective little frown. Then, hastily donning fur trimmed mantle and small bonnet, she drew a thick veil over her pretty, even features, and stealing softly down stairs slipped out of the house. The season of the fashionable seaside town in which she had chosen to linger on week after week was nearly ended. She hurried on through the almost deserted streets, looking timidly about her, for she was not used to ramble unattended. Though October was near, the air was balmy but for an occasional chill breeze that swept over the sea, across whose dark, sobbing waters the moon cast a gleaming, silver green pathway.

She paused near the pier, shamefaced and irresolute, to await her sympathetic friend, whom she saw approaching with an unmistakable expression of pleasure and gratification in his eyes. There was a brief, silent greeting. Then they wandered on to the shell strewn beach, exchanging confidence to the safe accompaniment of the receding tide.

The subtle certainty of perfect appreciation effaced every doubt that had assailed her as to the judiciousness of keeping this appointment, and she told, recklessly enough, of the widening gulf between herself and the husband who could not or would not understand her, and the yearning for something she had never known, of her intellectual loneliness. And in the low musical tones that thrilled her he spoke of his own wasted existence, the wife who was no companion to him, the sympathy he longed for—and, at last, of their own friendship, hinting something deeper. She chided him softly, but with a consciousness of forgiveness for his presumption, and an equivocal argument ensued that absorbed them into forgetfulness of the flying hours till her startled cry and uplifted hand brought his carefully worded discourse to a sudden end.

From the church tower the hour of midnight boomed distinctly through the gentle hiss of the distant waves. Each stroke fell like a knell upon her throbbing heart. Looking up, pale and terrified, she saw with dismay that the lights on the esplanade had been extinguished, and the great hotels, looming with grim majesty out of the darkness, closed and shuttered.

A 12 o'clock tete-a-tete on the beach—oh, the shame of it—the stinging scandal for her dearest friends to reveal in, if it ever came to their ears! The clock must be wrong, she urged piteously, thinking of the "little half hour" her conscience had been stifled into granting, but a glance at the jeweled bauble on her chateleine by the light of a spluttering fusee confirmed her worst fears and the integrity of the maligned timekeeper.

There was no time to lose. She turned impatiently toward the town, and her companion, following with more speed than dignity, was wise enough to attempt no renewal of their perilous conversation. Through the streets she ran, breathlessly, to the surprise of the solitary policeman and sundry feline wanderers who scuttled noiselessly out of her path. How she longed to be hidden safely in the corner of her comfortable carriage, moving drowsily homeward after some Cinderella! But seaside festivities were nearly over, and there was no excuse for her tardy arrival. She held her head down, fearful of being seen on foot in such haste, and with her attractive companion, whose sensibility would have been sorely hurt at the eagerness with which she dismissed him when the house came in sight, had he not felt alarmed for his own reputation as well as the safe custody of his uncongenial wife's fortune, and with a hurried wish that all would be well walked away with an air of relief ere she reached the doorstep.

She rang the bell with a miserable sensation of being deserted in her hour of need, and a shuddering fear crept over her as she waited outside the house that looked darkly inhospitable with its fastened shutters and massive door. A boisterous wind sprang up, making her shiver in spite of her warm cloak. Clouds chased each other across the fair, round moon. She knocked and rang again impatiently.

No sound of welcome, admission to warmth and light, only the faint echo of her friend's footsteps already in the distance. With the erratic logic of a spoiled and petted woman who had never seen the contrary side of the world she blamed him for not having waited—even remotely—until he saw her safely indoors, wondering, in helpless anger, that she had ever turned to him for sympathy.

A loud rat-a-tat, and then another, rather timid this time, for the closed door and retreating figure had grown hideous with awful meaning. What if her husband had discovered the secret meeting and shut her out forever! She knew men did such things on the spur of the moment, and in this case there had been a long and sullen estrangement to justify any conclusion he might pardonably come to. The thought became more terrible every instant as she knocked and rang frantically without result.

The church clock struck the half hour, a long, melancholy chime.

Trembling from head to foot, she leaned against the railings, her eyes heavy with despair. Where should she go? What should she do? The suspicious questioning of her friends, the astonished scrutiny of the townspeople, were equally difficult to face. Like a vision the awful future flashed through her bewildered brain. She saw herself exiled to the streets, a forlorn, wretched woman, forsaken by the man she despised in her real trouble, yearning to make amends for her past blindness and faintly imploring an inexorable fate at the steadfast door of the life she should know no longer.

Barred out! Oh, God! Barred out! In undreamed of agony she pictured her husband's stern orders and the gossip in the servants' hall. Then, hardly knowing what she did and choking with desperate sobs, she turned toward the home that had become so dear, beating wildly at the door panels with her clinched fists and crying aloud like a frightened child:

"Let me in! Oh, do let me in!"
"Are you mad?" said suddenly a calm, well known voice at her side.
"The maids are on the top floor at the back of the house, and nothing short of an earthquake would rouse James. If I were not careful to take my latchkey when I go to the club, he would present me with the key of the street. And why didn't you order the carriage to fetch you, or?"

He broke off suddenly. The ponderous door stood open, and he waited for her to pass in, but with a quick glance at her white face and closed eyes caught her tenderly in his arms as she fell insensible across the threshold. Gently as a woman he loosened the heavy cloak and took off the little bonnet, disentangling it from her soft, golden hair with dexterous fingers. Then, probably from a lamentable ignorance of the principles of first aid, he bent down and kissed the sweet, tear stained face that rested peacefully near his heart.

And the wife, coming slowly back to a new life of perfect love and trust through the shadow of her former folly, felt and answered the timid embrace with clinging arms and tears of joy and gratitude.—London Today.

It Sued Her.

They were threading their way slowly among the gorgeously dressed dummies in the dry goods shop, stopping every now and then to admire or criticize and to inspect linings and price marks. Nothing had pleased their fastidious fancy very much until the girl in brown saw a black serge just in front of her.

"There, Marie!" she exclaimed in triumph. "That's what I want. See how that umbrella skirt hangs! See how that coat sits in the back! The frock makes even a lay figure distinguished. If it's silk lined and doesn't cost too much, I shall have it."

She advanced and laid inquiring hands upon the frock, lifting the coat to inspect the lining. Then she fell back with a little cry. It was not a dummy, but another customer, who turned and faced her.—New York Recorder.

Brown Bros. & Lincoln,

THE "COLD FOOT'S" FRIEND.

Her Mistake.

It was in the theater lobby, right after the curtain had dropped for the last time. The ladies were putting on their wraps. The gentlemen were busy assisting them. Every one was trying to get out of the main door. In the center of the crowd was a young man and his best girl. He was a nice young man and the girl was pretty. Walking in front of them, or rather in front of the girl, was an elderly looking man. He stopped suddenly, his face got red and purple by turns. He finally blurted out: "Sir! What do you mean by squeezing my hand?" The young man blushed and so did the girl. The men near by nudged one another, and the women elevated their heads a little and heard nothing.

Her Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children she gave them Castoria.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE

IN 1895.

The Simpletons, a new novel by Thomas Hardy will be begun in the December number, 1894, and continued to November 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that Thomas Hardy stands foremost as a master art of fiction and The Simpletons may be expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked Tribby—the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc, by the Sieur Louis de Conte, her page and secretary under which guise the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on "Charleston and the Carolinas, the first of a series of South Sea Papers."

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empires. The next volume of Harper's Magazine will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict the present life there. Julian Ralph will prepare for the magazine a series of eight stories, depicting typical phases of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the long stories, there will begin in the January number the first chapters of a three-part novelette, by Richard Harding Davis—the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete short stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the magazine.

Laurels of the Past

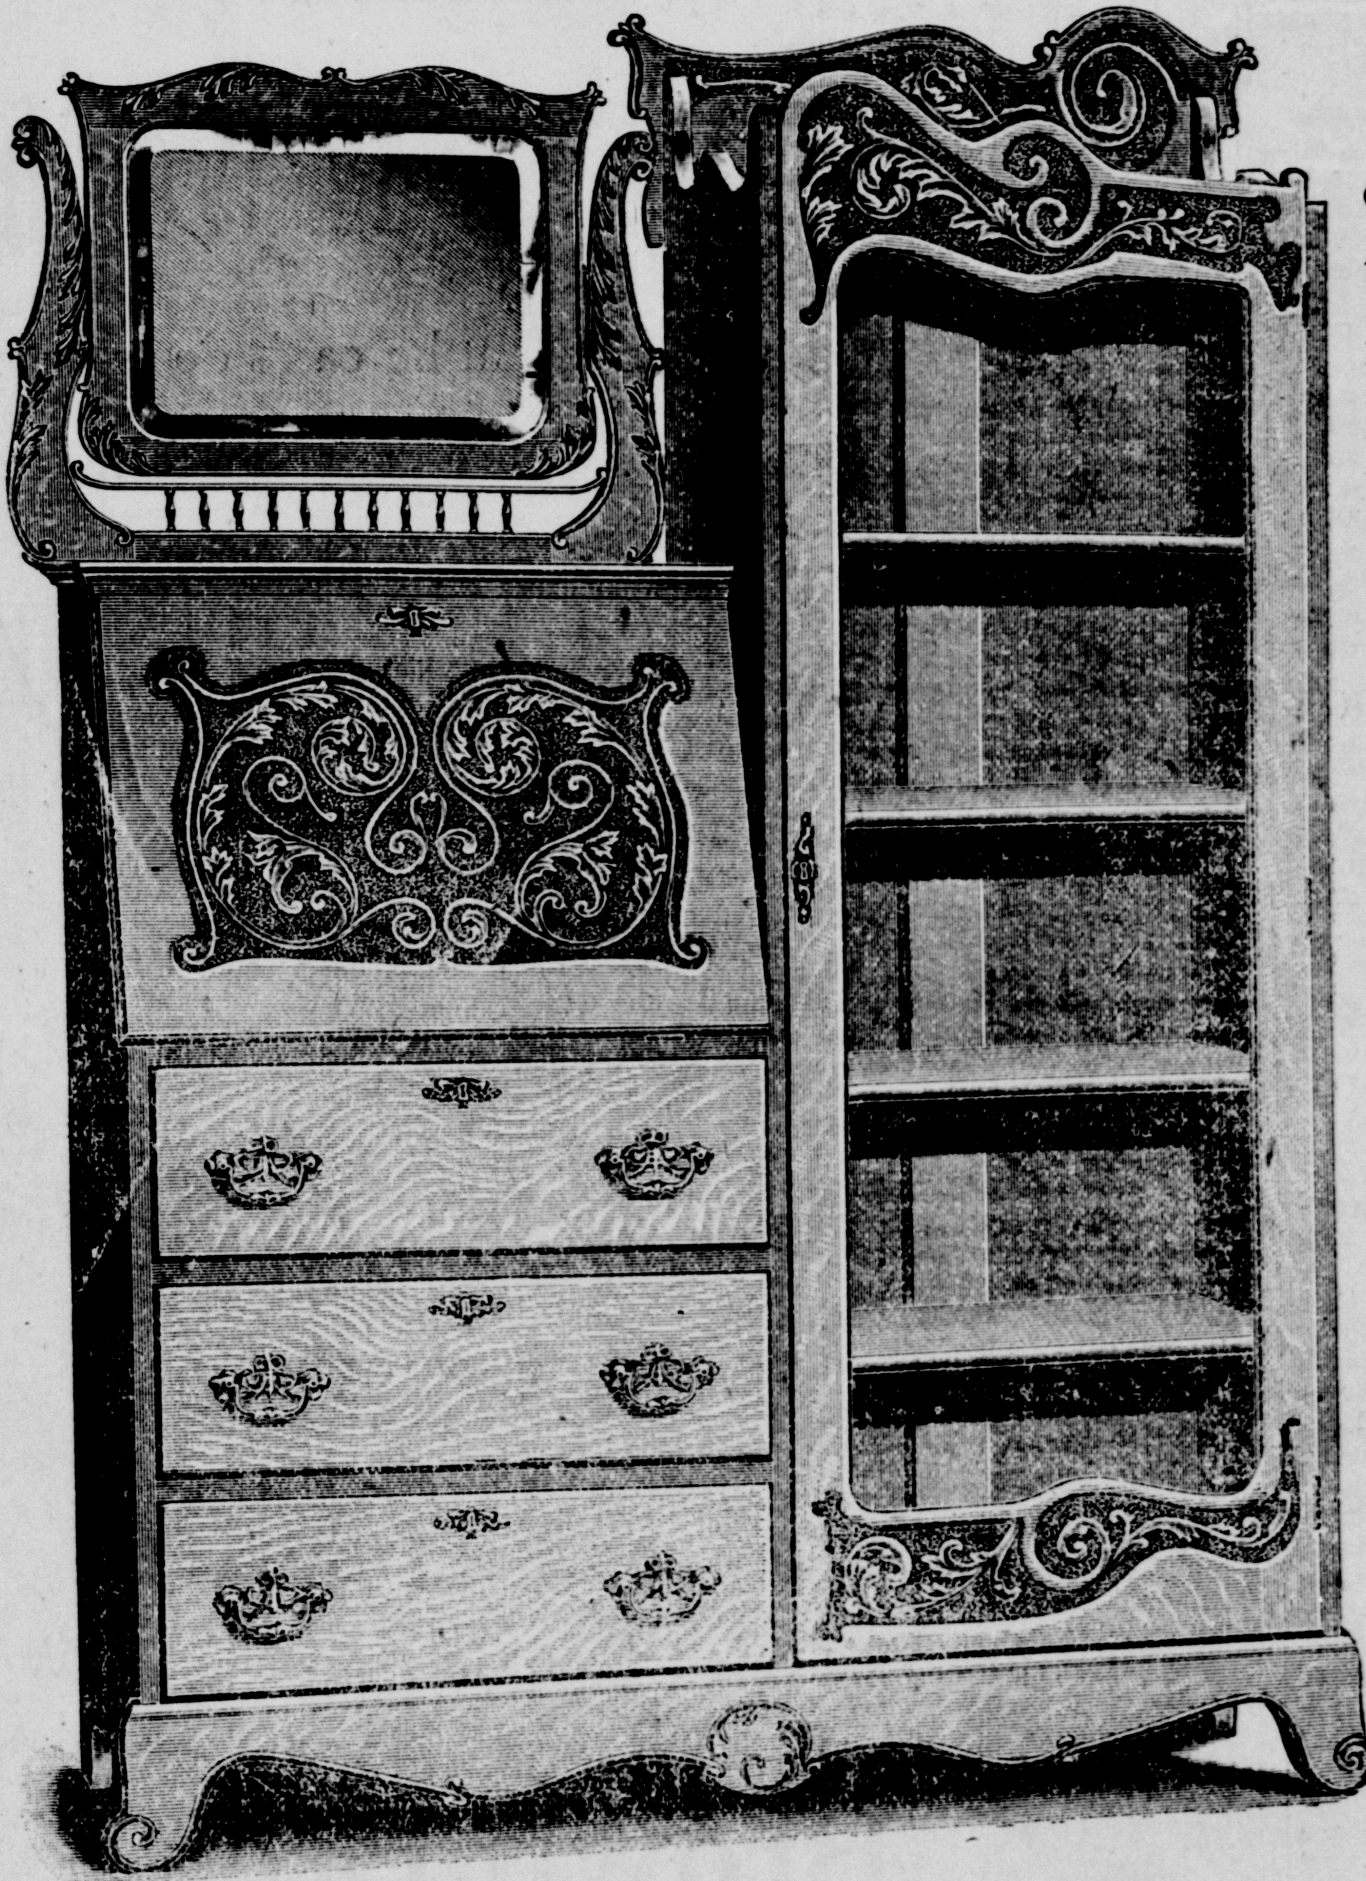

are not enough. We mean every day to add to them by better doing. Too much bright wit is being turned to efforts to reduce grades of work and quality of goods---and keep up appearances. We permit nothing of that kind. The things you know, and the things you don't know, must be right---even the prices---or we've no place for them. We want you to go to every other furniture store in Janesville before coming here, get their lowest cash prices, note them down, then come here last and we will quote you prices on credit, which will be less than their cash prices.

covenant with the people to do and to have and to sell every single article we advertise--as we advertise it and when we advertise it ---without fail. We'll name you prices which you will recognize as under values. You're anxious to make your money go as far as possible, and with this end in view you can't in justice, buy but here. There's no furniture store in the state like ours. It towers above all others as a giant above a pigmy. Kimball's store is recognized as the leader of all---beyond a shadow of a doubt. We are the only Furniture house in the state that dares to offer furniture as cheap for Credit as for Cash.
